1. Applicant's election without traverse of species II in the paper filed May 25, 2005 is acknowledged.

2. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

3. Claims 3 and 7 are finally rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. In claim 3, lines 4-5, the phrase "tape-like" is indefinite, as it is unclear in what manner and degree such is "like" a tape. See also lines 8, 10, 12, 14, 15, 17, 19, 20, 22, 23, 24, 25, 27, 28 and 30. Merely eliminating the "-like" in each instance is suggested.

4. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

5. Claims 3 and 7 are finally rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Hikita (6,404,181). Hikita discloses an electronic part supplying tape (composed of plural elements 2, see column 5, lines 47-53 and Figure 3) used in a tape feeder (41) arranged in a part supplying portion of an electronic part mounting apparatus (all of Figure 7) for holding electronic parts on a tape member at a constant pitch and for supplying the electronic parts comprising a first connecting portion (12, 12) formed on a first end portion of a first tape member (first series of elements 2), a second connecting portion (14, 14) formed on a second end portion of the first tape member to be connected to a first connecting portion formed on a first end of a second tape member (second series of elements 2 connected to the first series), an alignment means and a holding means (interengaging portions of the connecting portions, the pronged portion of 12 that aligns the first and second tape members in longitudinal, width and thickness directions of the tape members).

As to claim 7, a reel (41 or 43) is disclosed with the tape wound around it.

6. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

7. Claims 3 and 7 are finally rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hikita ('181) in view of Busler (3,431,548). Hikita discloses an electronic part supplying tape comprising a first connecting portion (one end of a series of elements 2), and a second connecting portion (another end of a series of elements 2), an alignment means (interengaging portions of the connecting portions, the pronged portion of 12 that aligns the first and second tape members in longitudinal, width and thickness directions of the tape members), and a holding means (interengaging portions of the connecting portions). Busler discloses a first connecting portion (at 44), and a second connecting portion (at 46), an alignment means (43, 44 and 48), and a holding means (44 and 46).

To modify the tape of Hikita employing the connecting structure of Busler would have been an obvious substitution of connecting, aligning and holding structures already known in the art, the advantages of connecting and aligning being described by Busler.

As to claim 7, a reel (41 or 43) is disclosed by Hikita with the tape wound around it.

8. Claim 3 is finally rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over DE 3311634 in view of Busler. DE 3311634 discloses an electronic part supplying tape comprising a first connecting portion (one end of 12), and a second connecting portion (another end of 12), an alignment means (interengaging portions of the connecting portions), and a holding means (interengaging portions of the connecting portions). Busler discloses a first connecting portion (at 44), and a second connecting portion (at 46), an alignment means (43, 44 and 48), and a holding means (44 and 46). To modify the tape of DE 3311634 employing the connecting structure of Busler would have been an obvious substitution of connecting, aligning and holding structures already known in the art, the advantages of connecting and aligning being described by Busler.

9. Applicant's arguments filed May 25, 2005 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Hikita, Busler and DE 3311634 are still pertinent to the claimed subject matter as described above.

10. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

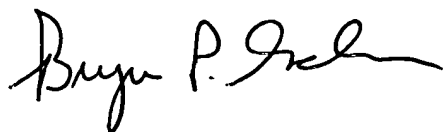

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
